

Lawrence Goldman heads up the keyboard program at MVSU, where he teaches applied piano and class piano, administers piano proficiency requirements, and serves as departmental accompanist and student recital coordinator. A widely experienced solo performer and collaborative pianist, he has participated in several hundred concerts and recitals on the Valley campus and has concertized in numerous regions of the United States. He is the founder and director of the annual MVSU Piano Festival, and he has received the HEADWAE award for academic excellence and the J.H. White Preeminence Award in the arts. Goldman holds the Doctor of Musical Arts degree from the University of Southern California, in addition to degrees from the University of California and the University of Michigan.